Newsletter of the Missouri Mycological Society

Bylaws by Phil Roos

The Missouri Mycological Society is now a "general not for profit corporation" under Missouri law. The bylaws are printed here. At our annual meeting in February, we can discuss them and change them, if anyone is interested, and then ratify them.

We also have articles of incorporation which I am not sending out. The first two articles of are identical to those of the bylaws. The third is similar to the bylaws, but briefer. The fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh are the same as in the bylaws. The eighth, ninth tenth and eleventh are required by the state for not for profit corporations. The twelfth article says that we will have bylaws. If anyone wishes to see the Articles of Incorporation, I will mail them a copy.

The incorporators were myself, Buddy Samuels and Ken Gilberg.

Corrections by Phil Roos

Jay Justice informs me that the correct amount for NAMA publications was $11,867.99. Also, the total expenditures were $23,651.22. The $31,775.00 was the total amount budgeted. Also, Jack and Marty Toll attended the NAMA foray. I forgot to list them. My apologies for both.

No sooner had I sent off the last newsletter than my Sundberg & Bessette handbook miraculously re-appeared. (I wish that would happen with my "Collins Guide" by Lange and Hora which is out of print.) Walt writes that both of his books are available. For prices, write him at Botany Dept., Southern Illinois University, Carbondale IL.

Miscellaneous

The officers have discussed applying for federal not-for-profit status. The state not-for-profit status is a step in that direction. However, while incorporation cost only $10.00, the federal application fee is $150.00. The application won't go in until the annual meeting. If people think that we can't afford it, we should talk it over.

In each of our three years, our membership renewals have gone down, even though we get new members too. People who hadn't renewed as of Jan. 1st received a reminder and some of them have now renewed. More may come in. A brief report will be handed out at the annual meeting.
